Dear Mr. or Ms,

Through this letter I would like to ask about the possibility of covering a pending Junior Front-End Web Developer position in your company.

Your remarkable professional career has confirmed and reinforced my interest in a place in your company and I would like to tell you that it is my pleasure to contribute vigorously to the implementation of your project.

I have realized that integration of computer science into the business environment can no longer follow the standards of previous decades (without planning, analysis and evaluation), but must be subject to documented scientific standards because there is an ever -increasing dependence on businesses on new technologies.

I am interested in how to design and develop innovative projects by acquiring knowledge, dealing with and implementing projects to be competitive in the market, both in the development of innovative approaches and with constant feedback to improve the company's products, using new technologies and organization methods. I am highly organized and focused on detail, with strong analytical and research skills.

I look forward to being given the opportunity to further discuss how I can contribute to you and how skills can help your company achieve its goals.

Thank you for your time and for considering my application. I am at your disposal and waiting for your news as well as any additional information you need.

Sincerely,

George Sintichakis
